Dear Dr. Lederburg:

Many thanks for your letter of October 12,, and also for the several reprints which just arrived.

I was very pleased to hear that you are to be in Berkeley next summer giving a much-needed course here in microbial genetics. Moreover I am glad that your visit is scheduled for the second summer session for I shall be in Europe probably for the first half or two thirds of the summer. I'd like to attend all of your lectures and be on hand the full period of your visit, but at least this way I should get back in time to see something of you though I shall not have much work with Allomyces actually in progress.

Sincerely yours,

Ralph Emerson.
